Welcome to the Mountain Camp family!

We are so excited that your camper will be joining us this summer. Since 1966, Mountain Camp has provided children from around the world with experiences, memories and friendships that stay with them throughout their lives. Like no other youth activity, we believe camp has the ability to shape life-long attitudes and behaviors.

Mountain Camp's unique atmosphere allows children to learn in a fun and safe environment that encourages independence while nurturing lasting friendships. Our minimal technology, non-competitive program offers activities that instill a love for self-propelled and wind-propelled travel. In today's hectic, high-tech world, we believe a back-to-basics approach to outdoor recreation and community development is critical to building a child's positive self-image.

Now more than ever, children need the life skills, experiences and time in nature that camp provides. From campfire songs and skits to the first night out in the woods, the camp experience can have a profound impact on a child's development.

Finally, the majority of our new campers learn about Mountain Camp as a result of word-of-mouth referrals from happy campers or parents. If you want to refer a friend, just email us and we will send out information ASAP.

Please contact our office if you have any additional questions and a camp director will be happy to help..

See you at camp!!

COMMUNICATION

We have a “no cell phones” policy at our camp. We believe camp is a great opportunity for children to be independent from their parents, in a safe and supportive environment, for a short period of time. Cell phones are a great convenience when you’re trying to figure out when and where to pick up your child and to touch base with them during the day. Camp, for most kids, is the one time when they handle issues directly with their peers and counselors without relying on their parents. The boost of confidence the campers gain from these experiences is one of the most valuable things they will take away from their time at camp.

Communication with your child and knowing how your child is doing are both very important. We encourage you to write letters and send emails to your child at camp. We will also encourage your camper to write you letters while they are here. We agree to call you if your child is experiencing a problem at camp and you are welcome to call our camp office with any questions or concerns you have about your camper. Thank you for your support in keeping Mountain Camp cell phone free.

ADVICE FOR PARENTS

Going to camp is an excellent time for children to grow, gain independence, confidence, and make lasting friendships. Sometimes the separation from family, friends, and familiar surroundings can be a difficult transition. Mountain Camp takes pride in our counselors and their ability to help your child gain independence and learn how to adjust by keeping them involved in the camp. It is very important to us that all children attending camp have made the decision to come themselves. Because of the strong emphasis on the child’s desire to come to Mountain Camp, homesickness is rare.

Please keep the camp office informed on any recent changes in your family. Divorce, death, serious illness, or a recent move may be unsettling for a child. Also, let us know if your camper has a lot of anxiety about going away to camp for the first time. Any information that will help make the camp experience the best it can be is welcomed and strictly confidential.

We suggest writing letters that are newsy and dwell on the things your camper is doing at camp. Lonesome letters about how much the dog misses your child or how the house just is not the same usually contribute to feeling homesick. Include in your letters wishes of fun, good times, and support. It is helpful if bad news can be withheld until your child returns from camp. If this is not possible, please call us and we will assist you.

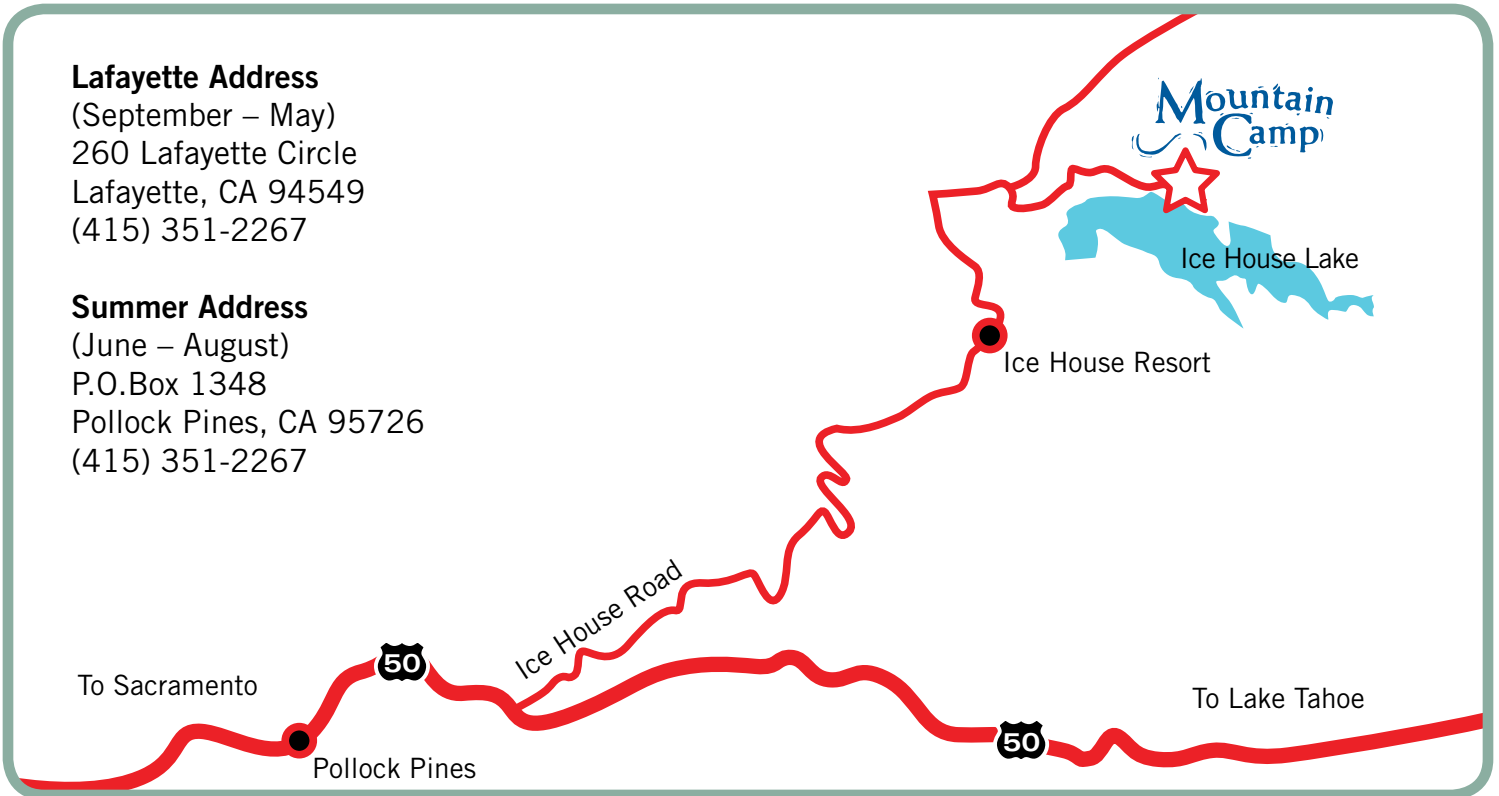

When actually packing for camp, be excited and encouraging. You may want to send along familiar items that are special to your child.

Please do not make deals with your camper concerning his or her length of stay. The commitment to cabin-mates, counselors, and themselves is an experience camping can offer that is unequaled.

We understand that parents do also get homesick for their child. Just remember how valuable the experience is for them and how much they will have to share with you when camp is over.
